The Canadian Association of Career Educators and Employers (CACEE) is a national non-profit partnership of employer recruiters and career services professionals. We provide leadership, information, resources and a professional network to help employers attract, recruit and retain the right talent on campus.

Why Join?

As a campus recruiter your goal is clear - to hire the brightest and best qualified students. Successful recruitment on campus is a challenge. You need connections; you need to know what other employers are doing; you need to know the most effective recruitment techniques to raise awareness amongst students. Membership in CACEE will help you meet these needs.

As a CACEE member you will:

- Strategically access students that best meet your recruitment needs;
- Develop opportunities to promote your brand and get your organization front and centre throughout the on-campus recruitment process;
- Understand the next generation coming through the educational system and therefore increase your offer/acceptance and retention rates;
- Participate in national dialogues regarding campus recruitment;
- Network with career educators from over 130 universities and colleges.

"CACEE provides excellent opportunities for employers to participate in conferences, professional development activities and Campus Recruitment Institutes. These networking opportunities are instrumental in helping recruiters to share ideas, current trends and information with fellow employers, as well as educators."

"For employers who actively recruit at Canadian universities and colleges as part of their overall recruitment strategy, affiliation and membership with CACEE just makes good sense. As the only association in Canada that provides a forum for employers and educators, CACEE is an excellent professional investment."
